BRAFA attracts some 55,000 visitors and while many of the treasures may be top dollar, for me it is unpretentious and a great learning experience. As a bonus, the show's guest of honor will be the Ghent Florals, a Royal institution in the Flemish region of Belgium dedicated to flowers. Floral decorations will be created by floral designer Mark Collie, a favorite among the fashion set (Christian Dior and Dries Van Noten are clients). The show runs January 23rd through January 31st at Brussels' famed Tour & Taxis building (named after the famous Von Thurn und Taxis family, founders of the postal system).
